Opportunities at UNIL - Summer school

UNIL is offering a summer school on Health Equity in Chaotic Times. This Summer School offers a global analysis of health equity organised in lectures, practical workshops and group activities. It provides a theoretical basis and an in-depth reflection on health equity's main issues through concrete and up-to-date data concerning social determinants of health, migrant populations, minorities (gender, ethnic and LGBTIQ+ community) and inclusivity.

The summer school is open to both Doctoral and Master's students and also to professionals. In the fields of Health and public health, social and political sciences and social work, economics and international relations
